

Laurie Hawkinson

Architect and co-founder of Smith-Miller + Hawkinson Architects: Professor at Columbia University's Graduate School of Architecture Planning and Preservation. Her diverse body of work spans scales and typologies, expanding beyond architecture's conventional boundaries. At SM+H she led the design for the Corning Museum of Glass, North Carolina Museum of Art Amphitheater and Master Plan, the Wall Street Ferry Terminal, the Land Port of Entry at Massena NY for the GSA and recently completed the Zerega Avenue Emergency Medical Services Station for the City of New York.

She holds an undergraduate and master's degrees in fine arts from the University of California at Berkeley and received her professional degree in Architecture from the Cooper Union where she is recipient of the John Q. Hejduk distinguished alumni Award. She is a member of The Contemporary Arts Council at The Museum of Modern Art and a founding member of the Board of Directors at The Wooster Group. She currently serves on the Public Design Commission for New York City.